

Gunn Museum Presents the Weaver, Ellen Goldman

At the Washington Town Party at the Spring Hill Arts Gathering

Sunday, August 8, 2021, 1 to 4pm

Ellen Goldman

In the spirit of preserving our region's history, the Gunn Museum is pleased to present Ellen Goldman, an enthusiastic weaver who enjoys sharing her love of weaving with others, at the Spring Hill Arts Gathering at 292 Bee Brook Road in Washington. Weaving is one of the oldest surviving art forms on the planet, and Ellen will perform her craft on a floor loom and discuss the basics of weaving, as well as more complicated techniques. Ellen Goldman has taught weaving and crafts to children and basic weaving to adults. She has traveled to Guatemala, Peru, and Mexico to study weaving and natural fiber dyeing. Ellen is an active member of The Handweavers Guild of Connecticut. Admission is free, but registration is required to attend the festival.
